

Recruitment ad English (UK)

Do you have Primary Biliary Cholangitis (formerly known as Primary Biliary Cirrhosis) (PBC)?

We are looking for native speakers of UK English, men and women, over 18, who have experienced itching caused by primary biliary cholangitis (PBC), to help us evaluate a group of questionnaires that have been translated into UK English. These questionnaires will be used during an upcoming clinical trial of a new drug for PBC.

You will be compensated £75 for participating in a face to face interview.

After you take the set of questionnaires, your interview will start and will last approximately 90 minutes. The interviewer will ask you a series of questions about how easy it was for you to understand the UK English translations. We are looking to see if the questions are understandable and applicable to you.

The information you provide during the interview will be kept confidential. We will not have access to your medical records and we will not make any recording of the interview.

The study interviewer will travel to your city to do the interview, so you would need to be available during a certain timeframe in order to participate. These dates have not yet been scheduled. Please email the contact below to learn more about the study, answer some screening questions (to confirm you qualify for the study), and to schedule the date of your interview.

For more information, please email Alyson Grove at alyson.grove@roundpegresearch.com.